Comelec exec blocking Padaca win

By PHILIPPO Pineda and Richard Lee-Ilano

MANILA (Inquirer) — A Comelec executive has been accused of blocking the victory of President Fidel V. Ramos' vice-presidential pick, Senator Juan Ponce Enrile, in the May 14 elections. The executive, who is a high-ranking official in the Commission, is alleged to have tampered with the results of the election, ensuring that Enrile would not win enough votes to become vice president.

CPAs to help Congress canvass

By Cynthia D. Batara

THE PHILIPPINE Institute of Certified Public Accountants (Pcpa) has agreed to assist members of Congress, along with the National Board of Canvassers, in the official canvass of the votes for president and vice president in the May 10 elections.

This was announced by Speaker Jose de Venecia who said he accepted the offer of Pcpa president Pio Baccanga, which was endorsed by Senate President Franklin Drilon, to help Congress tabulate the certificates of canvass (CoCs) in the recent polls.

De Venecia said Pcpa would be sending over a team of four accountants daily who would work for free for the duration of the canvass.

In a letter to Baccanga, De Venecia said Pcpa's participation would reinforce Congress' efforts to ensure full transparency, credibility and honesty in the process "so that no shadow of doubt could cloud the proclamation of the winners."

The committee on media of the joint session has set up two high-grain screens inside the plenary hall of the Batasang Pambayan and in the main lobby to show the running totals during the canvass.

House Deputy Secretary General Noel Alben said the committee had also put up additional telephone lines for the use of media covering the national canvass which could start today and run from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday to Saturday until the task is completed.

JINGGOY ESTRADA

GMA reaches out to Jinggoy

Opposition's Jinggoy, in turn, has reciprocated with reassuring words to the Palace.

"He (Jinggoy) said he will respect the counting and will not be involved in any destabilization attempt," said Housing Secretary Michael Defensor, political spokesperson of President Macapagal-Arroyo, and a friend of the senator-elect.

Estrada, who rooted for opposition candidate Fernando Poe Jr. has denied funding opposition groups who continue to protest the alleged massive fraud. The government has tagged the opposition as plotting destabilization moves against the President.

Defensor congratulated Jinggoy for winning in the senatorial race. He said he hoped Estrada's son would cooperate in passing administration bills. However, they did not discuss whether Jinggoy would join the administration majority in the Senate.

Critical collaboration

"His direction would still be with the opposition but I hope he will practice critical collaboration, and not assume a destructive stance (against the majority)," Defensor said.

The President has offered reconciliation with the opposition senators-elect during their proclamation earlier this week.

Defensor also told police and security officials to hold their horses on Sen. Gregorio Honasan whom police authorities identified as one of the destabilizers.

"He has given his word that he will not get involved in destabilization," Defensor revealed, adding that police authorities should not release unverified information to the media.

Creating tension

"It creates tension instead of sobriety and stability. When you accuse people of [being involved in] destabilization plots, the usual tendency is to hide or respond with aggressiveness," he said.

The President yesterday hosted another thanksgiving lunch, this time, with all but one governor from the Bicol region and the province of Masbate.

"The President expressed her thanks for the support extended by the governors in the last election," presidential spokesperson Ignacio Bunye said.

In the May 10 elections, Ms. Macapagal was a close second to Bicol's favorite son, Raul Roco.

Election reform vigorized

MANILA, May 16 (AP) — The House of Representatives today passed a bill to reform the election process, a move that could lead to a more transparent and fair electoral system.

The bill, known as the Comprehensive Election Reform Act, aims to address long-standing issues of electoral fraud and manipulation. It includes provisions for the creation of a new body to oversee the election process, the strengthening of the Commission on Elections (COMELEC), and the implementation of a more rigorous system for the certification of election results.

The bill was passed by a vote of 218 to 102 in the House. It is expected to move forward to the Senate for further consideration.

The bill also provides for the establishment of a new body to oversee the election process, the strengthening of the Commission on Elections (COMELEC), and the implementation of a more rigorous system for the certification of election results.

The bill was passed by a vote of 218 to 102 in the House. It is expected to move forward to the Senate for further consideration.

Communists join AI list of human rights violators

MANILA, May 16 (AP) — The American Institute for Human Rights (AIHR) today announced that it has added the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) to its list of human rights violators.

The AIHR, a non-profit organization based in Washington, D.C., has been monitoring human rights violations in the Philippines since 1982. It has previously named several government agencies and military units as violators.

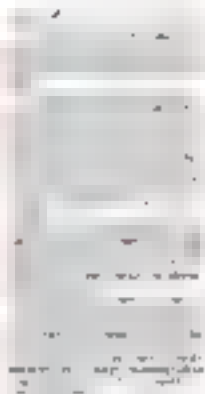

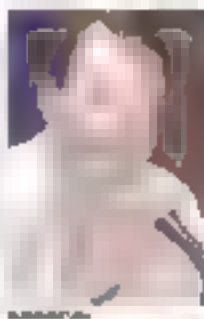

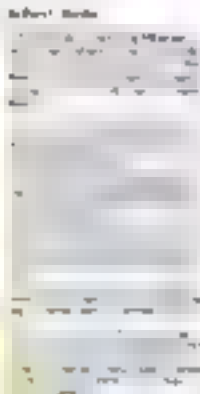

The AIHR's report states that the CPP has been responsible for a series of human rights violations, including the killing of civilians, the abduction of children, and the use of torture. The report also accuses the CPP of being involved in the destruction of villages and the displacement of thousands of people.

The AIHR's list of violators is used by the U.S. State Department to determine which countries and groups are eligible for U.S. foreign aid. The AIHR's report is also used by other human rights organizations to raise awareness of human rights violations and to pressure governments to take action.

William Hung's 'success' launches search for non-talents

By Susan C. Bow

OHIO is the strongest province of the American Idol "judges" William Hung. The Chinese language student, lucky to have been introduced to the show by a friend, had one number of songs, but his performance was so bad that he was declared a "non-talent" and was eliminated.

Manuscript found

William Hung's performance was so bad that he was declared a "non-talent" and was eliminated. The show's producers, Simon Cowell, Paula Abdul, and Randy Jackson, were so impressed by his performance that they decided to give him a second chance. They decided to give him a second chance.

Classy retro music with fresh twist

By Sonnet Tizon

WHEN the music business changed its gears from vinyl records to compact discs, there was a time when the music industry was in a state of confusion. Many believed that the music business was dead. But it wasn't. It was just taking a change of the century.

Today, the music industry is still in a state of confusion. But it's not dead. It's just taking a change of the century. The music industry is still in a state of confusion. But it's not dead. It's just taking a change of the century.

Work of course

When I was a young man, I was a fan of the music industry. I was a fan of the music industry. I was a fan of the music industry. I was a fan of the music industry.

The music industry is still in a state of confusion. But it's not dead. It's just taking a change of the century. The music industry is still in a state of confusion. But it's not dead. It's just taking a change of the century.
